Leaving behind their <sup>1)</sup>familiar English life for a new <sup>2)</sup>start in New Zealand sounded a pretty <sup>3)</sup>crazy idea, even now as they sat waiting to <sup>4)</sup>board their plane. But with a <sup>5)</sup>young child, it was a <sup>6)</sup>huge gamble; the <sup>7)</sup>thought that Lucy might <sup>8)</sup>hate it and hold her <sup>9)</sup>disappointment against her mother was a <sup>10)</sup>terrifying prospect, but Shona knew it was too late to <sup>11)</sup>change her mind now. The memory of the tearful <sup>12)</sup>farewell with her sisters, along with Lucy's <sup>13)</sup>cousins, tried to <sup>14)</sup>invade her mind, as if the guilt of being here wasn't enough on its own.
